Commerce Court Hands Down Opinion in Transconti- nental Rate Cases

COMMISSION IS ENJOINED
Judges Hold It Is Duty of Interstate Commerce Body to Use Discretion

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—In the majority opinion of the commerce cases formally handed down today in the transcontinental case, it is held that the long and short haul provision of the interstate commerce act is unconstitutional. Judge Archbold concurs in the issuance of a temporary injunction of the orders of the interstate commerce commission but in a dissenting opinion holds the long and short haul provision to be invalid.

The commerce court reached the conclusion that the cases involved in the present proceeding afforded the best possible opportunity for a determination of the constitutionality of the long and short haul provision of the act.

It was realized that the question eventually would have to be fought out before the United States supreme court. In the formal opinion, prepared by Judge Mack, the commerce court not only agrees with the Interstate Commerce commission that the long and short haul provision—the fourth section of the law is constitutional but that it would be unconstitutional "as an unlawful delegation of legislative power," if no standards were given, "to guide the exercise of the commission's discretion in granting authority to depart from the rule forbidding a 1-1-1 rate for the long haul than for the short haul in the same direction and over the same line."

E- rate. Exemption.
By an extensive examination of the entire law, however, the court reaches the conclusion that it is the duty of the commission to exercise its discretion to establish a lower rate for a longer haul than for a shorter, if the condition, in its opinion, warrants such action.

The Council points out that the values of the coefficients which are employed do not establish absolute rates for either the long or short haul but they do establish a relation between any long haul rate that a carrier may put into effect and the short haul rate, determining that from zone 1 the water short haul rate shall not exceed the long haul rate and that from zones 2, 3 and 4 the short haul shall not exceed the long haul rate by more than 7 per cent, 15 per cent and 25 per cent, respectively.

"Insofar as the Commission attempted to determine the relation of the long and short haul rates to respective of absolute rates, it goes beyond any authority that has been wielded in it, for it is not in the power of the Commission to say that 100 or 107 per cent or a given percentage of an unknown less than reasonable rate to the coast is more or less than a maximum or a minimum and

PACKERS TAKE FIREMAN AKIN GOVERNMENT UNAWARES HURT AT FIRE FALLS FROM HIGH ROOF MAY DIE OF INJURIES

Attendant Selves Then Ask For Writ Habeas Corpus—Short Out to High Court

Attack Validity Trust Act
Move on Part Indicted Men
Nullifies, for Present, Results Investigation

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—The indicted Chicago packers, by precipitating to a federal court decision on the constitutionality of the Sherman anti-trust law, when they surrendered themselves into custody and asked for writ of habeas corpus, merely took steps necessary to carry the fight before the supreme court of the United States without cost or delay of a trial, was announced tonight.

Government attorneys, taken unawares, were out from much of the results of their long investigation into meat packing industry by the sudden move of the packers. Instead of a case to be supported by evidence actually brought together, the fight, at this time at least must be conducted only as an argument of law. The case thus becomes not a question as to the guilt or innocence of the packers but a plain attack on the validity of the Sherman act, according to attorneys for the packers, they explain their position briefly in a wire:

Explanation of Position.
The supreme court in the Tobacco case converted the Sherman act into an illegal enactment, since the act by placing each individual corporation on a standard of its own, it upon its peculiar individual acts, it away from all individuals the possibility of knowing how their acts are to be viewed by a jury "in the light of reason" (that this obscures the contrary to the eighth amendment of the federal constitution). In short, the petition the attorneys charges that the Sherman law in spite of the court's action in ordering the dissolution of the American Tobacco company and the Standard Oil company, only an adverse decision of the supreme court by the United States supreme court will give the government attorneys an opportunity to see the material they have gathered in the prosecution.

Probably Postponed Trial.
At the time the trial, scheduled for sometime of next week, undoubtedly will be postponed pending the decision of the higher courts on the petition. Attorney John S. Miller, who as chief counsel for the packers conducted the court move, characterized the government law as a "net large enough to catch all possible offenders, and he it to the courts to step in and set it at large."

The ten packers indicted all but William Armour were temporarily in custody while the habeas corpus petition was being heard. The nine are: Louis F. Swift, president Swift and company; Edward F. Swift, vice president Swift and company; Charles H. Swift and company; Charles H. Swift and company.

EDUCATOR ATTACKS THE MARRIAGE LAWS Declares Most Vital Question Before Public Is Conservation of Child

GALESBURG, Ill., Nov. 14.—Speaking before the seventh annual convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs today, William U. Bodine, superintendent of compulsory education in Chicago, declared that the most vital question before the public is the conservation of the American child.

The parent tree must be conserved if the wife or the children is to be preserved. "It is from the tree of unfit parentage that so much of the speckled fruit of childhood falls," he continued. "Right thinking means right living and right living never wrongs a child. A fast pace of parents means a slow child at school."

"We wonder at the great number of subnormals, neurotics and backward children and pupils with visual and auditory defects who develop into truants, delinquents or defectives."

"Yet the wedding bells by grace of weak, farical and superficial marriage laws tinkle a welcome to the habitual drunkard, the epileptic and the tubercular, to talented men and talented women and to nervous girls rendered physically unfit by the strenuous demands of the social whirl. These are merely advanced agents of defective posterity."

"Spavined Decemblers reach across the apes of life for rosy May and short dresses. Child marriages are the shame of the state. Our marriage laws should be amended to stop the social decay in child raising and should require every man and woman who desires to wed to present a clean bill of health and physical fitness. They should bar the undesirable and the unfit."

TAFT BLOCKING GRANT TO CITY SO SAYS CONGRESSMAN EDWARD T. TAYLOR

President Responsible for Delay in Getting Pikes Peak Land

Cripple Creek Miner, Just Released After Previous Attempt to Kill Self, Ends Life

Special to The Gazette.
CRIPPLE CREEK, Nov. 14.—As the Short Line train pulled into Elkhorn about 2 o'clock, this afternoon Guy Wing, a miner aged 33, threw himself across the rails under the observation car and was ground to death by the wheels of the rear truck on that car. Yesterday Wing was released from the county jail where he had been kept two weeks following an attempt at self-destruction by hanging. This morning he drew his pay check at the Hiawatha mine and paid bills to grocery men and others. He had $17 on his person when killed.

TRUSTEES POSTAL SAVINGS BANK ACT To Take Prompt Measures to Maintain Securities at Their Face Value

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—As the result of the first sale of postal savings bank bonds in New York recently at the low rate of 82 1/2 the trustees of the postal savings banks are considering the adoption of prompt methods to maintain their securities at their face value.

They will announce their willingness soon to invest in three bonds at par the 30 per cent of postal savings deposits which the law places at their disposal for investment "in bonds or other securities of the United States."

This is pointed out, would virtually insure 100 cents on the dollar to the holders of these bonds at any time during the 20-year life of the securities. "The low price for which the first bond was sold created surprise in government financial circles. If 92 1/2 could be accepted as a criterion of the market value of the investment the trustees believed the success of the postal savings system would in a large measure be placed in jeopardy. While the bonds are as good as gold at maturity, it could hardly be expected, it is said, that there would be any extensive investment in them if there was a probability that in case a holder had to surrender them before the expiration of 20 years he would lose 7 1/2 per cent of his principal."

May Withdraw 65 Per Cent.
If the 30 per cent of the disposal of the trustees should be insufficient at any time to maintain the parity of outstanding bonds it is pointed out that the law authorizes the president to direct the withdrawal of 65 per cent or all but 5 per cent of the remainder for investment in bonds or other securities of the United States when, in his judgment, the general welfare and interests of the United States so require.

The postal savings bank law authorizes the secretary of the treasury to redeem United States bonds subject to call and release them to the postal savings bank trustees up to the 30 per cent they are authorized to invest. The only bonds of this character now outstanding are United States 3's and before the postal savings bonds situation developed it had been generally understood that the trustees would invest in these securities.

In buying the postal savings bonds which bear only 3 1/2 per cent the postal savings investments would lose one-half of 1 per cent. This is argued, is insufficient compared to the maintenance of the parity of the postal savings bonds.

FORMER SENATOR TALKS ON CURRENCY REFORM

Transmississippi Congress Is Given Outline of Plans for New Banking System

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 14.—Currency reform and the proposed change in the banking system of the country as outlined by the National Monetary commission, was the central theme under consideration by the delegates at the Transmississippi congress which convened here today.

The principal address was delivered by Hon. Nelson Aldrich of Rhode Island, chairman of the commission, who explained the proposed plan, especially in its effect upon the people west of the Mississippi river. He was positive in the assertion that the people of this section would derive great benefits from the proposed change. He explained how the small banker would be given independence together with enlarged credit.

"The organization of credit," he said, "is the most important element of the successful existence of commercial states. This is especially valuable to the newer communities such as you have in the transmississippi territory."

Politics Out of It.
Referring to the criticism that possibly the proposed National Reserve association might be dominated by political influences, Mr. Aldrich said that the sensible plan for the reorganization of the country's banking system could be controlled by politics.

"Neither can it be dominated by Wall street or any clique in New York or elsewhere," he said. "This plan should appeal to the farmers of the west, because so many of them are now stockholders and depositors in banks."

Mr. Aldrich said that the new plan would give a uniform rate of discount throughout the country and that it would offer more competition to foreign banks. He commended the proposed plan to allow national banks to have savings departments.

The speaker appealed to the delegates to give the plan of the Monetary commission careful consideration and to ask their constituents to do likewise.

Public Discussions Desirable.
Henry L. Stimson, secretary of war, made an informal address in which he said that a public forum for free discussion of vital subjects, such as this congress is, is highly important.

"Printed opinion leads to conventional thought and public discussions are highly desirable," the secretary said.

"The government is building the Panama canal. It will be completed and now I want to see the American people use it in developing greater commercial relations with the outside world. We must not allow other countries to get a strange hold on the commerce of the world."

Among the speakers at the night session were Falcon Joseph of Fairbanks, Alaska, in "The Alaskan Problem," Ex-Gov. Alva Adams of Colorado, and A. F. Morgan, engineer in the United States department of agriculture.

George J. Kendall addressed the convention tonight in the absence of United States Senator Borah, who was detained on his arrival here. Mr. Kendall spoke upon the subject of "The Relation of the Business Man and the Farmer to the Parcel Post."

Officers Chosen Soon Again's Report Shows Good Work for the Year—Some Statistics

The directors of the Associated Charities were re-elected for a period of three years at the annual meeting in upper Perkins hall yesterday afternoon, as follows: Charles A. Foran, William M. Hager, Dr. H. W. McQuinn, A. J. Jones, Joseph F. Kelly, Edward S. Parsons, and Francis D. Pastorsius. The board will meet in a few days to elect officers for the ensuing year.

W. F. Worcester, local agent for the Associated Charities, made his annual report, which showed the organization to be in good condition and doing excellent work. During the last year 74 persons applied for assistance. Of this number 538 were homeless men, and the remainder were men with families. Seventy-five per cent of the applicants had been residents of this city for more than a year and only 15 per cent had lived here less than six months. Out of the 218 men with families, the parents in 124 cases were living. Fifty-seven and two-tenths of the applications for assistance by men with families was on account of sickness.

Of the total number of applications, 68.24 per cent was caused by sickness, 16.5 per cent applied by members of families with the mother only living, and 5.83 per cent by those out of employment. The remainder, 5.98 per cent, came for advice alone.

Commerce Court Hands Down Opinion in Transcontinental Rate Cases

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The majority opinion of the commerce court formally handed down today in the transcontinental rate cases, it is held, that the long and short haul provision of the interstate commerce act is constitutional. Judge Archibald, concurring in the issuance of a temporary injunction of the orders of the interstate commerce commission, but in a dissenting opinion holds the long and short haul provision to be invalid.

The commerce court reached the conclusion that the cases involved in the present proceeding afforded the best possible opportunity for a determination of the constitutionality of the long and short haul provision of the act.

Exercise Discretion.
By an exhaustive examination of the entire law, however, the court reaches the conclusion that it is the duty of the commission to exercise its discretion to establish a lower rate for a longer haul than for a shorter, if the condition, in its opinion, warrants such action.

The court points out that the orders of the commission which are enjoined, do not establish absolute rates for either the long or short haul but they do establish a relation between any long haul rate that a carrier may put into effect and the short haul rate, the relation that from zone 1 the western short haul rate shall not exceed the long haul rate and that from zones 2, 3 and 4 the short haul shall not exceed the long haul rate by more than 7 per cent, 15 per cent and 25 per cent, respectively.

GRAND JUNCTION WILL NOW BE A MODEL TOWN

New Socialist Chief of Police Issues Strict Orders on Various Subjects

GRAND JUNCTION, Nov. 14.—No spooning in the park at night, no sitting in the bright moonlight. Not a bit of it after December 1, when S. R. Hutchinson, the new Socialist chief of police takes up the reins of his office.

"I will do my duty," says Hutchinson, "and my duty including the following regulations:

"First—To arrest an intoxicated banker as soon as I would a hobo.

"Second—To keep all miners off the streets after 9 p. m.

"Third—To see that no immoral pictures are run by a picture show.

"Fourth—To hate a bootlegger like poison.

"Fifth—To enforce the law and at the same time advance the cause of humanity.

"Sixth—To arrest and ship, if I have to, a drunken brute and keep him in jail, while I find employment for his wife.

"Seventh—To see that there is no more disorder about a church meeting than there is about a crowd gathered around a soapbox orator."

These are the regulations and rules which Hutchinson has mapped out for his officers, and he has been appointed only four days. He was appointed by the Socialist mayor and the two were the leaders in giving the hobo a square meal every Sunday last spring.

DURANGO AGAIN HAS RAIL CONNECTION WITH WORLD

DENVER, Nov. 14.—A freight movement, running into the hundreds of cars will be begun out of the southwestern part of the state tomorrow, when for the first time since October 7 Durango will have a continuous rail connection with the outside world.

The entire San Juan county was inundated by floods the first week in October. Since October 7, freight and passenger traffic into that section has been carried by rail and wagons, the latter used as a means of travel over those parts of the Denver and Rio Grande line that were destroyed by the floods. Today rails were laid in at a point between Pagosa Junction and Arboles, which completes the last gap.

TAFT BLOCKING

that purpose was passed by the house last session, referred to the committee on public lands, and there killed by the efforts of the agriculture department, which President Taft controls entirely. All the president has to do is to tell Mr. Graves to recommend the bill. Then it will pass. Therefore I say, and shall tell the gentlemen tomorrow, that they must exert all their influence, political and otherwise, upon President Taft. When a committee from this city waited on the president in Denver last month, Mr. Taft put them aside with glittering generalities and said nothing, as usual.

"The government and congress is conservation crazy in a way. They want to conserve everything conservable, and they advocate the renting of the land on the other side of Pikea Peak to the city so that a constant income will accrue to the government. I am in favor of neither of state nor federal control of public lands. I think the best thing to do is to place the public land in the hands of private owners. That is the very thing which the department of agriculture is fighting as hard as it can. It considers the grant which Colorado Springs wants as the passing of public land into private ownership, and it will take a change of administration to convince them otherwise, unless President Taft takes it upon himself.

Must Go, to Taft.

"Frankly, and so shall I tell the gentlemen tomorrow, nothing can be done in the matter short of President Taft. They must get to him. How they will accomplish that I do not know, but if I can aid them I most certainly will do so. If they think Senator Guggenheim can facilitate matters I want them to ask him to do so. But so far, the senator has declined to take the initiative in the matter.

"It is not fair to this city, which in a short time will be a city of at least 100,000 people, to give it a handicap of inefficient water supply. I have done my best to make the city clear to my fellow congressmen, but have met with little success. The question is purely one of administration, and must be treated as such. You people must pull your wires from the highest authority, and not waste time in going before congressional committees or any lesser body or person than President Taft. I want to reiterate that I am with Colorado Springs. I think its requests are fair and just, but 16,000 acres looks mighty big to the radical conservationists."

Congressman Taylor, beside meeting with the Chamber of Commerce and Mayor Avery today, will address the public and college students upon the "Panama Canal," in Palmer hall at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. Congressman Taylor was a member of the committee which made a report to congress last session on the Panama canal, and has made a detailed inspection of the immense project.

HARVESTER COMPANY OUSTED BY MISSOURI AND FINED $50,000

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 14.—The supreme court of Missouri today granted a writ of ouster asked by the state against the International Harvester company and fined the company $50,000.

The company in September 1910 was found guilty of violating the Missouri antitrust laws by a commissioner appointed by the state supreme court. The case was submitted to the supreme court for affirmation last April. The effect of today's decision is to prevent all the companies which make up the international from conducting further business in the state.

The taking of testimony in the suit began in May 1908 and continued over a year. Judge Theodore Brace, of Paris, Mo., was the special commissioner appointed by the state supreme court to take the testimony in the case. The taking of testimony was conducted by Attorney General S. H. Huddley, then attorney general. The testimony in the case covered 1,000 typewritten pages.

One of the witnesses who testified was George W. Perkins of I. P. Morgan & Company of New York. Perkins was the guiding spirit in the organization of the International Harvester company.

The ouster suit against the company was brought under the common law and the Missouri antitrust laws, which are broader than the Sherman antitrust law.

Organized in 1902

The international company was organized in 1902. It absorbed successively the McCormick, Deering, Ward, Bushnell and Glessner, Plano, Milwaukee, Keystone, Minnie Altman & Miller, Buckeye companies and the I. McCormick company. In June 1902 Cyrus W. McCormick went to Mr. Perkins to see if he could suggest a way of relieving competitive conditions which he had met at the viewpoint of the manufacturers. Perkins at once conceived the idea of organizing a big holding company to take over the competing companies.

This was carried out and the merger formed. The testimony of Mr. Perkins and that of Mr. McCormick added materials in the conviction of the international company.

The international Harvester company's commissioner Brace declared in his report by reason of its enormous capital $120,000,000 could not obtain a license in Missouri so the international Harvester company of America, a selling agent, was organized and obtained a license. This concern Judge Brace said, was organized simply to evade the laws of the state which forbade the holding company from entering. The commissioner found that the international had practically a monopoly upon the sale of binders in the state.

Judges Wrought Up.

Judges of the supreme court of Missouri are much wrought up over the "leak" in the international Harvester company ouster decision, which permitted contents of the court's order to become known in New York and elsewhere in advance of the court's sitting today.

Chief Justice Valliant, aided by Justice Lamb, began an inquiry late today in an effort to fix responsibility for the "leak." Newspaper correspondents, clerks and other court attaches were questioned. The inquiry will go on until the judges learn how their finding was given unauthorized publication or they become convinced the trick of obtaining such information is futile.

The report that the Harvester company had been ousted was circulated in New York at 10 o'clock this morning. The court did not convene until 10:50 a. m. and it was 11:07 a. m. when its decision was handed down.

Knowledge of the decision affected the New York market. Harvester shares breaking 5 points before the decision was announced from the bench.

non-discriminatory rate from the same point of origin to an interior point.

The practical effect of the commission's order is either to compel a blanket rate from the entire east to the entire west or to prevent the carriers from getting all the business which they now secure without loss by making rates which enable merchants to meet market competition.

"In a word, unless some true business is given up, the effect of the order will be to put Spokane and other interior points on an equality with Seattle and other Pacific coast points. At least from zone 1 a position to which they would not be entitled under all circumstances in view of their relative locations, the former 400 miles more or less in the interior, the latter on the coast."

Judge Archbold in an opinion concurring with the majority of the court as to the propriety of the granting of temporary injunctions against the orders of the commission which he holds "were clearly invalid," says:

"I cannot see my way to go beyond this and declare the fourth section valid on which, if anything is to be said, my opinion is to the contrary."

Final determination by the commerce court of the question whether the temporary injunction granted shall be made permanent probably will not be reached for several months.

SO KIND!

"FAR be it from us to attempt to read The Gazette out of the Republican party." The Herald-Telegraph.

For this consideration, our heartfelt thanks. We had not thought of this danger, but now that it is suggested we can better realize the danger that is past. To be "read out of the Republican party" by The Colorado Springs Herald-Telegraph must indeed be a horrible fate. Its ignominy can only be appreciated by those who know the potency of The Herald-Telegraph's influence, in the Republican inner circle, an influence equaled only by that of the local Afro-American organ which comes to life at the beginning of each campaign.

Having, by this exhibition of clemency, effectively disposed of all arguments in behalf of Progressive Republicanism, The Herald-Telegraph drops the subject. The people will take it up again in a little less than one year from date, and then we shall see just who the real Republicans are.

THE AMERICAN WHEAT YIELD

THE United States, a few years ago the granary of the world, exports a steadily diminishing quantity of wheat annually. Extensive new areas of wheat lands which have been brought into production within the last two decades scarcely suffice to take care of the increased home demand caused by the rapid growth of our own population. It is plain that if the United States is to continue to export wheat, or even to feed itself, in the coming years there must be an increase in the yield per acre.

An address delivered by Howard Elliott, President of the Great Northern Railway, at a county fair in Wahpeton, N. D., a few weeks ago, contains instructive facts and figures on this subject. And since it is a subject which does not merely concern the farmers but the entire nation, Mr. Elliott's contentions deserve general consideration.

First, he shows that there has been an actual decline in the average yield per acre of corn, wheat, oats, barley and rye in the principal grain-raising states throughout almost the entire period since 1875. Considering wheat alone it is shown that "in 1875 the average yield was 13.4 bushels, while it was but 13 bushels for the ten years ending in 1905. Since 1875 the average declined one-tenth of a bushel per acre, and last year the average in these seven states was only 12.1, or an even bushel less per acre than for the ten years ending in 1875."

Now for a comparison. The average wheat yield per acre in the entire United States in the ten-year period ending in 1899 was 14.1 bushel. In the same period Germany's average was 28.9 and that of the United Kingdom 33.1.

The lesson of these figures is plain. OF INCREASED THE three states of North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota alone have a wheat acreage more than three times as great as that of Germany, eight times that of the United Kingdom, and far greater than that of Argentina, or France, the latter the greatest wheat country in Europe in acreage.

Says Mr. Elliott:

There were in these three states in 1909 15,000,000 acres in wheat, yielding in Minnesota 18.8 bushels, in North Dakota 18.7 and in South Dakota 34.7 bushels, or a total production of 523,430,000 bushels. The crop had an average farm value on December 1, of that year, of 22.6 cents, or a total farm value of $118,330,180. Suppose that the production in that year had been equal to the German average for the ten-year period ending in 1899 of 28.9 bushels, which would have been 43 bushels more than the average of the United Kingdom. On this basis there would have been 650,000,000 bushels to sell, with a farm value of $117,570,410, or an increase in the selling value of one single crop in the single year amounting to $292,240,000 for Minnesota, North and South Dakota, all of which would have gone to the farmer.

Stated in another way, "each bushel of wheat added to the average production per acre of these three states in 1909 at the average farm value of December 1 of that year would have put into the pockets of the farmers $14,545,600. It is possible to raise the average wheat production by energetic effort, at least one bushel per year. It is clear, therefore, that as the acreage is increasing there is a loss of from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 a year, depending on the price of wheat, and that this loss is very largely due to lack of farm efficiency." Interesting evidence of this is seen in the case, cited by Mr. Elliott, of two farmers in western Minnesota whose wheat fields were separated only by a fence. The soil and general conditions were identical, but one farmer harvested 26 bushels to the acre, and the other only 13. The reason was that one knew his business and the other did not.

So much for wheat. Statistics show the same, and in some cases even greater, disparity between the American and European yield per acre of other grains. If this could be explained by the greater fertility of European soil there would be less cause for reproach to the American farmers, but the fact is that our soil is vastly richer. In England, Germany and France the land has been cultivated for more centuries than the soil of the Mississippi Valley has been cultivated decades. Therefore the European farmer must do his work with a thoroughness and attention to scientific methods almost unknown here. He farms intensively rather than extensively, while the American farmer as a rule puts in his seed and then trusts to providence and the natural fertility of the soil for a crop. And the result is apparent when a comparison is made of the yield per acre.

OPEN PARLIAMENT

TO THE EDITOR OF THE GAZETTE.

It (The Herald-Telegraph) sneers at innovations and at innovators in a fashion intended to make its readers believe that any man who suggests an idea at variance with the time-honored tenets of the Republican party is a traitor and a sneak.

The above from The Gazette's editorial, "Evolution of Real Question" in today's edition. The inference, of course, is, that The Gazette is too fair and open-minded to adopt such a policy. I would like to ask The Gazette if it is willing to extend the same policy of fairness to those "innovators" who call themselves Socialists and to those "innovations" which they advocate? I hope it is willing so to do, for it would seem good to find fair treatment outside our own press, although thereby we might lose an influence that is unwittingly working for us. As an example, in one of its recent issues The Los Angeles Times runs an editorial which reasons in this wise: "The city of Los Angeles must raise $17,000,000 to put itself in a position to benefit by conditions to be created by the construction of the Panama canal. Capitalists will not buy the bonds of a city under a Socialist administration. There are about 28,000 clerks in Los Angeles. Do these clerks think that their jobs will be safe under a Socialist administration?" etc. etc. Could you put a better argument into the mouth of a Socialist speaker than are these? If capitalists have the power to retard the growth and welfare of a city simply because they do not like the political thought of the citizens of that city, if clerks cannot vote as their conscience dictates for fear of losing their means of subsistence, isn't it about time to do away with the capitalist system which puts such power in the hands of a few and institute some other system more in accord with the spirit of American liberty? The fact is this: The time has come when the burden of proof is being shifted from the shoulders of the Socialist party to that of the capitalists, and the people are beginning to say to the managers of the capitalist system: "Make good, or give way to the Socialist system, that we may see if there is anything in it."

"Try your tinkering with the tariff, try your reciprocity, try your scientific management, but remember this, you, and not the Socialist system, are on trial. In the future the mansion must be built smaller and the home of the workman must be larger and more comfortable, and he must be allowed to own it. If you can bring this about, well and good. If you cannot, we will turn the management over to the Socialists, but in any event the exploitation of the working classes and the taking of too large a share of his product must cease."

G. V. LOCKWOOD.

Colorado Springs, November 12

A COMPLAINT

TO THE EDITOR OF THE GAZETTE.

In The Gazette of November 10, there is an editorial on civic advancement saying that everyone ought to be interested in the broader and better development of Colorado Springs, which is true, but in doing so they ought to keep in mind that at the present time the cost of living is so high that a wage earner must have work most of the time to be able to make both ends meet.

While one of the best moves the city has made is the paving of the streets, and no one will deny it, if let by contract it ought to go to the lowest bidder. Could not the city do this work and save the property owners a great deal of expense? And is Colorado Springs not so equipped as to do the paving of the material with the expense of sending it to Portland, Ore.?

When the storm sewer was put in, why did the city not have some way to compel the contractors to give the workmen of Colorado Springs the preference? Of the men who worked on the storm sewer not one out of 10 was a Colorado Springs man.

When Subcontractor O'Neil began his work on November 9 he hired all the Mexicans that were here, and the Colorado Springs men could go somewhere else and find work. Now if you are going to build a sewer you must take care of the people, and why was it not done in the instance before mentioned? Will it be done when the time comes, to pave? The only time that it has been done was in what little work that Mr. Smith did on the curb and gutters.

The civic organizations keep saying, "Patronize home industries." But we say, "Give us work," for if we can't get work how are we going to do any trading and how are we going to live?

A laboring man receives from $2.00 to $2.25 per day, and if he doesn't have steady work most of the time he cannot meet his expenses. The Gazette says that the wage earner would be interested in the movement, and he would be if he could see any way that it would benefit him, but when it only brings more men here to take his place he does not feel that he is doing himself and his family justice.

Now when the city tries to do anything for the laboring class, and by that I mean the men who have been in the city for a long time, not the men who come here because he hears that the city is going to pave or some other such thing to be done, sooner will everyone get right down to business.

The merchants of Colorado Springs should realize that if they want the workingmen's trade they should try to do it that they had something to do for the more money they make of course, the more they have to spend. And if the work is given to outside labor, the merchants will not get the benefit of what they should.

Now let us try and see what can be done to benefit all the different classes of people in this and more money to them.

CANDOR.

From Colliers
When President Taft said "Heaven save me from a candid friend," he named his greatest weakness. He does hate candor. The truth, to be strengthening, must sometimes be severe, and what Mr. Taft asks of his friends is pleasantness. Unkind pleasantness means suppression of what is disagreeable. Already we have reminded Mr. Taft of Lincoln's preference for hostile opinion, but the president will never seek the whole truth after the manner of his imaginative and noble predecessor. George Washington was personally extremely sensitive, and often chafed at censure, but he knew the absolute need of hearing all sides, and therefore he kept men near him who would criticize. Men in high position who wish to avoid candor have only to give the word, and flattery in plenty is poured upon them.

Poor George has grown tired of his kingly, according to stories I hear, he's never seen dancing and singing, or wearing a smile ear-to-ear. Condemned to a life artificial, to splendor that warms the soul to attitudes grave and judicial, a monarch is deep in the hole. For him no excursion or rally no natural, uplifting joys, a dog figs on deck in the alley, he cannot look on with the boys the circus has come and the people are sending glad shouts to the sky, the king cannot climb a church steeple to see the procession go by. The king cannot sit on the beachers and yell when the umpire is slain, most lonely of all living creatures, he just has to stay home and reign. Though roughly the old world may treat you, though troubles each morning may bring, though bories and jabberwocks meet you, be thankful that you're not a king!

How long, I wonder, will we go on preparing our daughters, whom we devoutly hope will be happy wives, for everything else but wifehood? Here is a genuine human document on that branch of folly which has just come to me. Please read it, all you mothers who are doing likewise. Read and reflect.

"My Dear Miss Cameron
I believe at one time you said you wished suggestions. May I offer one? My suggestion is to urge mothers to prepare their daughters for wifehood by teaching them carefully the details of housework and of managing a home. Many and many a young wife knows from bitter experience what the lack of this knowledge means.
"I speak from experience myself. My mother said (as doubtless many mothers say), 'You will have a maid, even as I. Why should you bother?' But, alas! my husband cannot afford a maid, and it is absolutely necessary that I know how to manage a home and care for my two little children—one a baby of seven weeks. I wonder how many daughters would be willing to fill that position with their present knowledge?

"My lessons in music and painting as well as my learning gained from being sent away to school, do not materially aid me now. I have been married nearly five years. I am trying so hard to be a capable wife and mother, but the way has been, oh, so difficult, and many bitter tears have been shed. The first washings I did made my soft, tender hands—unused to hard work—bleed. Today I have washed and hung out clothes, cooked meals, cared for the children and made grape jelly, as in winter one appreciates those things. I speak of what I have done merely to show that my former training does not stand me in good stead."

The girl that wrote that letter is a type. Thousands like her are marrying every year, and in her case, many bitter tears are shed before they have mastered the duties of their positions.

To be sure, they do master them in the long run, but as another girl, who had never been taught housework, because her mother had a maid and thought there was no need of it, expressed the situation, "Housework doesn't come natural as it would if I had done it as a child. I do everything the longest, hardest way."

Now, of course, you realize I am not speaking against a college education, a training in music and the arts for girls. I am the last one in the world to do that. I think it is all nonsense to say that a college education unfits a girl to be a good wife and mother. I think an education makes a woman a better mother and wife, in that it makes her a happier, broader woman.

But I think the broad, cultural education for a girl as a woman should go hand in hand with the specific industrial training for her life as a wife.

If you want your son to be a civil engineer you give him all the general culture you can afford, and in addition to that, a specific industrial training for civil engineering.

Now, you want—and hence expect—your daughter to be a wife, don't you?—You would be disappointed if you could look into the future and see that she would never find a mate. Why, then, shouldn't you give her all the general culture you can afford, and at the same time a specific industrial training for her probable vocation?

The man who thinks has two daughters. One went to a musical school and another to college. After she had finished her college education, each girl spent one year in running the house and learning every branch of housework, sewing and housekeeping. Think what splendid wives they will make!

Of course, it isn't always possible to carry out a daughter's education on such an ideal scale. But there is no doubt but that in every household each daughter could be taught the simpler things about the science as she grows up, and I fancy there are few homes where it is not financially possible for the daughter to have a year to devote to this kind of learning, after she finished whatever schooling her father can afford her—be it grammar, high school or college.

Wouldn't it be interesting if a law could be passed requiring a year of such a service just as the German law has his term of military service before a girl was allowed to marry?

I rather fancy it would affect the divorce rate somewhat.

Dis-ease and Its Cure

By EDDY WOLFF

TETANUS

Tetanus, or "lockjaw," is an infectious disease characterized by rigidity and then spasms, of the voluntary muscles.

Lockjaw, or tetanus may involve only certain muscles, or sets of muscles; or the entire muscular system may become affected.

The germ which causes tetanus exists in dust and in surface soils. For this reason many wounds that occur in such a manner that they become tainted with the "germ" later develop into severe cases of tetanus.

The germ, while naturally finding entrance most easily through large wounds, sometimes secures admittance to the body through wounds so slight as to be entirely overlooked.

Tetanus sets in generally about 10 days after the germ has entered the system. Without warning the patient feels a stiffness in the back of his neck. Soon thereafter the muscles of the jaw stiffen, so that it becomes impossible to open the mouth wide or to chew properly. This condition may continue for a few days, or the rigidity may extend rapidly over the muscles of the entire body.

When this occurs, the back becomes rigid and arched. The breathing is limited by the tightly-drawn muscles of the abdomen. Shortly after this stage of the disease is reached begin the terrible convulsions which usually end in death.

Some cases of tetanus are cured by a sort of anti-toxin called anti-tetanic serum. The larger percentage of cases die. Though tetanus is difficult to cure it is easy to prevent.

Thorough washing of any suspected wound immediately after the skin has been broken with any sharp object will prevent the germ from penetrating. Germs cannot live in alcohol.

DANGER IN TIGHT COLLARS

From the London Hospital

"The fact is well known to veterinary surgeons, who tell us that neck constriction through badly fitting harness is a causative factor in 'staggers' in horses, and I have myself relieved a horse of this distressing symptom by relaxing the throat lash. It is equally well known that dogs suffer a great deal through having to wear tightly fitting collars. It is too much, then, to argue that those of us who wear our own collars too tightly buttoned may find in that practice some explanation of symptoms ascribed to other causes."

"Any one who has seen many cases, suicidal or otherwise, of fatal neck constriction, must have noticed three things: First, the small amount of actual constriction necessary to cause serious results; secondly, the fact that death in such cases is almost painless; and thirdly, that such death can not be caused by closure of the windpipe, as is so commonly supposed, except in rare instances, and then it can not be painless. It is therefore reasonable to suppose that many of us must often unconsciously place ourselves within a danger zone, and that if we do this regularly we are bound to suffer for it in some way. The nerves and vessels of the neck are sufficiently close to the surface to suffer from continual pressure such as is exercised by tightly fitting collars."

The writer goes on to mention numerous instances where he has known tight collars to cause headaches, "rheumatism," apoplectic symptoms, vertigo, sickness and other evidences of cerebral congestion. Which was at once relieved by loosening the neckwear. He says in conclusion:

"The neck is not a cylinder with parallel sides but is more or less conical; an important difference which we often lose sight of. In investigating the condition of one's own collar one is apt to slip the fingers under it and raise to a level where the circumference of the neck is much smaller than the difference between size of collar and the girth of neck seems less marked. When the collar is allowed to slip back it naturally drops down into its ordinary working position where it presses on important and sensitive structures. The point to be remembered is that it is the lower edge of the collar that does the mischief, especially where it lies against the structures just above the clavicle."

"One or two hints in conclusion. It is just as well not to relax the neck-cloth suddenly. Also, never be content with merely relaxing the collar, see that there is no restriction, however slight, at the upper end of the thorax, and that the shirt bands are never tightened and pay particular attention to the collars of the patients' night clothing. It is a little difficult to get patients to see that these hints are important. Prejudice custom and the erroneous idea about catching cold are hard to contend with. But it is worth while to insist on the importance of your advice is carried out to the letter. The resultant benefits are too great and too striking to be disregarded."

THE WORLDLY VIEW

From the Philadelphia Record

"I suppose," said Collector Loeb, "that in the past a good many people looked on a strict observance of the customs laws from a selfish and worldly point of view. They are like Aunt Mary Perlsimmons.
"Aunt Mary called one day on the village lawyer.
"Well, old lady," he said "what can I do for you?"
"Ah wants to divorce mah husband," said Aunt Mary.
"Divorce old Uncle Bill?" cried the lawyer. "Good gracious, why?"
"Because he's done got religion, dat's why," said Aunt Mary. "An' we ain't had a chicken on de table for six weeks."

The Awakening of Bombiloo

By WEX JONES

In Bombiloo the beautiful, that fair Pacific spot, Where trade-winds kept the climate cool and sunshine kept it hot, The natives led a life of ease they didn't have to toil— So filled with fish the ocean was, so bountiful the soil They snored upon the shaded sand, and when they woke to eat Reached out and took the plantains that had fallen round their feet This being so, and likewise this, it took exciting news To make an islander sit up and interrupt his snooze.

A millionaire in search of rest had sought the whole world through, The place he wanted was the island of Bombiloo. The traders told him that the spot was simply steeped in rest— The natives were too tired to buy the products of the West.

They wouldn't lose a wink of sleep to get a string of beads— A plantain and a patch of shade sufficed for all their needs. Go there, the missionaries said, and sleep and balm your ails Will give you health and strength and nerves as good and sound as theirs.

The millionaire had landed with a hopeful sort of smile, As he gazed upon the beauty of the hidden little isle— But soon his smile departed, on his face appeared a scowl As he heard the island's people join in one malignant howl They were clustered round The Daily Leaf, and oh! the awful din That rose upon the posting of the final bulletin— Tongues tied the island up, and the island lost its sense As Bangaroo, for Bombiloo, had slammed one through the fence.

SPECIAL WORK FOR EACH UNITED STATES NAVY YARD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Although it has been the desire of the navy department to abolish a number of the smaller southern navy yards, it now seems possible that the adoption of a new policy of specialization will result in the continuance of all the plants in active service. The idea would be to have each station cover some particular field of naval work or serve as a training station or base of supplies.

Already, as a result of recent experience, there, the department has decided that hereafter all torpedo boats and destroyers shall be refitted at the Charleston, S. C., yard. This means that the Charleston plant practically will be the "mother yard" of torpedo boats and consequently it will be a very busy place in the future.

Santa Claus Letters
Ordered Delivered to Charitable Persons

Here's a chance to be Santa Claus, a real, honest and true St. Nicholas. The postoffice officials have just received word from Washington to forward all Santa Claus mail to charitable institutions, to persons who leave their addresses for that purpose, and to benevolent organizations. Superintendent Thomas of the delivery department is now waiting for volunteers. Santa Claus in this city so that such mail may be sent to them. He asks that any person who wishes to be Santa Claus to those children who write letters to that big-hearted fairy will leave their names and addresses with him. All letters to Santa Claus which cannot be delivered will be sent to the dead-letter office as undelivered mail. The order received by the postal authorities yesterday follows:

"Postmasters are authorized to deliver all letters arriving at their respective postoffices, between Dec. 16, 1911, and Jan. 1, 1912, which are addressed plainly and unmistakably to 'Santa Claus' without any other terms or expressions identifying the person for whom such letters are intended, to responsible institutions or individuals in the town or city of address who may desire to use them for philanthropic purposes. In the event that these letters are requested by more than one such institution or individual the postmaster shall distribute them in such proportion as he may deem proper."

Suggests State Postcard Campaign on Thanksgiving

Secretary Henderson has recommended to Governor J. F. Shafroth a statewide postcard campaign as a celebration of Thanksgiving. The suggestion comes from Secretary Henderson as secretary of the Colorado Association of Commercial Executives and the plan is to urge each citizen in the state to send postcards to friends or relatives out of the state on Thanksgiving day. Governor Shafroth has approved of the idea and may incorporate the suggestion in his annual Thanksgiving proclamation.

MEETING AT CALHAN NEXT MONTH FOR ORGANIZATION

At meetings to be held December 8 and 9 at Calhan, of the rural school teachers and the parents and directors, Mrs. Inez Lewis, county superintendent, hopes to form a permanent organization of the teachers of schools in El Paso county, outside of Colorado Springs and Colorado City.

An interesting program is being prepared for the two days' session at Calhan. Prof. E. B. House of the State Agricultural college will address the meeting Friday evening. Miss Evelyn Lewis of the Colorado Springs High school faculty, also will have a prominent place on the first day's program. The second day's meeting will be given over almost entirely to the organization of the county teachers association. Through the organization Mrs. Lewis hopes to bring about a uniform grading of all the schools. Another question that will be touched upon is that of the consolidation of the rural districts.

MONTGOMERY AND STONE SCORE IN GOOD COMEDY

After Performance, Stone Shows Friends Moving Pictures of His Recent Arctic Trip

By J. R. H.
"The Old Town," a comedy by George Ade, with music by Gustav Luders, was presented at the Opera house last night with Montgomery and Stone in the leading roles. This attraction is one of the best of its type seen in this city in recent years. It is clever and contains much of Ade's best work. The music, while not particularly melodious or catchy, is pleasing because of the ease with which it flows, and the lit and gracefulness of its rhythms. "The Old Town" has been sumptuously staged, recalling those blissful days when musical comedy first made its appearance in its modern form. The production is unusually good throughout.

Montgomery and Stone made their first appearance in this city with last night's presentation of "The Old Town." These two comedians have developed the art of team work in musical comedy to well-nigh perfection. Fred Stone is inimitable. His dancing and rope-throwing are special features of "The Old Town." David Montgomery, though not so clever as his partner, is excellent, and does some splendid work in his various impersonations. The supporting company was more than adequate throughout. Flore Hope's dancing was graceful, light and pretty. The ballet work of the "ponies" was especially pleasing. Taken all in all "The Old Town" is decidedly worth seeing.

After the performance, Fred Stone, through the courtesy of Manager Cummings, showed at the Crystal theater for the entertainment of his friends and the press, the motion pictures which he and his manager, Mr. Houghton, took during their Arctic tour last summer. The pictures are most interesting and show some sights few people have witnessed.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Word has been received of the engagement of Miss Irene Taylor, daughter of Mrs. A. Taylor, 1221 North Nevada avenue, to Albert Russell of Manchester, Ala. Both are well known in Colorado Springs.

Announcement of the engagement was made a few days ago at Toledo, O., where Mrs. Taylor and daughter were spending the winter. The date of the marriage has not been set. Mr. Russell is a brother of Mrs. Alfred A. Blackman, wife of Dr. Blackman, 301 North Nevada avenue. Miss Taylor will act as bridesmaid at the marriage of a friend, Miss Mildred Smith, in Toledo, December 15.

STILL FIGURING ON BUDGET

Mayor Avery is making every effort to have this year's budget covering the probable expenses that will be encountered the coming year in conducting the city's affairs, for presentation this morning or Friday morning at the meeting of the city council. From indications last evening the work will not be ready before Friday, and it is probable that an adjourned session will be held next Monday, in order that the council may receive the budget within the stated time.

Members of the city commission held an informal session in Mayor Avery's office yesterday afternoon, while Avery went over their estimates with them. The work was not finished last evening.

Mayor Avery is holding the estimate of the water department until the others have been disposed of.

The funeral of Martha Leistikow, who died yesterday at her home, 1827 North Weber street, will be held from 10 o'clock until 12 noon at the residence at 2 o'clock. Friends are invited.

Mrs. Nancy Near, 712 Cooper avenue, died at a local hospital yesterday morning. Funeral services will be held from the First Christian church today at 2:30 p. m. Interment will be in El Estero cemetery.

Mrs. Anna E. Daugherty, aged 55, died at the home of her son-in-law, Charles D. Hodson, 1305 Washington avenue, yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The funeral will be held from the residence at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and will be private. Interment at El Estero cemetery. Mrs. Daugherty is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Charles D. Hodson; a sister, Mrs. F. C. Stout of this city, and a brother, W. F. Richards, and her mother, Mrs. Rosanna Richards, both of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. W. H. Parry has returned from a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Enlish of Greeley.

DISTRIBUTER OF PATENT MEDICINE IS FINED $10

Price N. Oden, a pedler, was fined $10 and costs in police court yesterday morning for distributing a patent medicine to different houses in the city. His arrest was made Saturday at the request of Dr. G. R. Gillett, health officer.

Oden might still be distributing the patent medicine around the city had not the attention of a certain physician been called to a box his little daughter was opening. She told him where she obtained it. The physician investigated and found that the so-called medicine contained 12 grains of opium, enough, he declared, to injure a child. The physician reported the case to the health department. In fining Oden, the court gave him the minimum, as it was the first offense, but notice has been given that other arrests will meet with the maximum penalty of $100 and costs.

DOCTOR, 73, WEDS WOMAN 59

A wedding of unusual interest took place at the Alta Vista hotel yesterday noon, when Dr. John A. Bell of Naperville, Ill., took for his bride, Mrs. Ida Murray Goodrich of Los Angeles, Cal. The groom is 73 and the bride 59 years old.

Back of the marriage is a little story that borders on the romantic. The two had known each other for years, but it was when Dr. Bell was treating his wife's former husband on his death bed that she came to know him better. Dr. Bell's first wife died shortly afterwards and the two found comfort in each other's sorrow, which did not abate when the then Mrs. Goodrich moved to California.

The two met in Colorado Springs a few days ago by agreement. Yesterday's wedding was a quiet affair, performed by the Rev. Frank Hale Tourret, pastor of Grace Episcopal church. The only guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Cochran, of Denver, nephew and niece of the groom, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Hoyt Stevens. The room was decorated as if for a formal affair. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served in the private dining room.

Dr. Bell has been for years one of the foremost physicians and surgeons of northern Illinois, and an extensive traveler. The bride has also traveled extensively in this country and abroad. Dr. and Mrs. Bell will spend the winter in the south and southwest, and expect to go to their home in Naperville next spring.

GOOD DEMAND FOR STOCKS

Sales of stock in the Cripple Creek district continued yesterday and the prices of shares rose correspondingly. While the demand for stock was not as great as had been on Monday, there was a healthy rush for the more promising values. In most cases the price of stock rose from one to two cents a share but no startling advances were recorded in any mine stocks.

The fact that the water from the Roosevelt tunnel has now reached what is supposed to be its normal flow of 12,000 gallons and that all mines in the district are being greatly aided thereby has placed the mine stocks on a healthier basis than they have been for many months.

The nominating committee of the Winter Night club will present a list of candidates for officers of the club at its annual meeting at the Antlers hotel Tuesday night. The names of the candidates to be submitted are: H. Alexander Smith, president; Dunbar C. Carpenter, first vice president; Dr. Henry W. Hoagland, second vice president; the Rev. Frank Hale Tourret, third vice president; W. W. Postlethwaite, secretary-treasurer.

DR. MACKENZIE TALKS

Dr. William Douglass Mackenzie gave an illustrated lecture on the works of Ian Maclaren, the famous Scotch writer, in Perkins hall last night. Dr. Mackenzie, who is president of the Hartford Theological seminary, has delivered several lectures in this city since his arrival here last Sunday.

HEALTHY MOTHERS

As bear children and as healthy are those who give their systems in advance of baby's coming. Unless the mother aids nature in its part, work the crisis leads to a system unequal to the demands made upon it, and she is often left with weakened health or chronic ailments. No remedy is so truly a help to nature as Mother's Friend, and no expectant mother should fail to use it. It relieves the pain and discomfort caused by the strain on the ligaments, makes pliant and elastic those fibres and muscles which are so rigid, prevents numbness of limbs, and soothes the inflammation of the glands. The system being thus prepared by Mother's Friend dispels the fear that the crisis may not be safely met. Mother's Friend, a speedy and complete remedy for the mother, and she is left a healthy woman to enjoy the nursing of her child. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Catarrh of the Stomach

A Pleasant, Simple, But Safe and Effectual Cure For It

COSTS NOTHING TO TRY
Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloated sensation after eating, accompanied, sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs and difficult breathing, headache, rickety appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling. There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition. The cure of this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surfaces of the stomach. To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do, and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harrison, the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Diastase, Ascorbic Acid, a little Nux. Golden Seal and fruit acids. These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and not being a patent medicine can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

The plan of dieting is simply another name for starvation, and the use of prepared foods and new fangled breakfast foods simply makes matters worse as any dyspeptic who has tried them knows.

As Dr. Bennett says, the only reason I can imagine why Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not universally used by everybody who is troubled in any way with poor digestion, is because many people seem to think that because a medicine is advertised or is sold in drug stores or is protected by a trade-mark it must be a humbug, whereas, as a matter of truth, any druggist who is observant knows that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have cured more people of catarrh of the stomach, indigestion, heartburn, heart trouble, nervous prostration and run-down condition generally, than all the patent medicines and doctors' prescriptions for stomach trouble combined.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest preparation as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, catarrh of the stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating after meals. For sale by all druggists at 50c a box.

Send your name and address today for a free trial package and see for yourself. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

THE DAY'S NEWS IN SPORT CIRCLES

Too Much Work Responsible for Downfall of Vandemoer

The dismissal of Herbert Vandemoer, all-around athlete, from the Colorado college football squad following his failure to show up at Monday night's practice, by Coach Rothgeb, is like a ton of lead on the shoulders of the students and football followers, when the fact became generally known yesterday.

The only announcement Coach Rothgeb would make last evening was to make it emphatic that Vandemoer was dismissed, and that as far as football was concerned, the backfield player would not be seen in a Tiger suit again this year. He did not have anything to say, he said, regarding other athletes.

COLORADO FUEL TEAM DEFEATS ELECTRICIANS

Three straight games went to the Colorado Fuel team in the Business Men's league bowling contests last night on the Brunswick alleys with the Electricians. Forrester of the Colorado Fuel team bowled 169 in one game, the high score of the evening.

"GRADS" HELPING COACH YOST

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 14.—"Willie" Heston, John Garrels, and Hal Weeks today responded to the call of the Michigan Alumni and spent the forenoon and evening helping Yost whip his eleven into shape for Saturday's game with Pennsylvania. The practice was secret and Yost would not tell what he thought of their work.

Craig and McMillan, two crippled stars, were again out in uniform today. Craig is expected to be Michigan's offensive star against Pennsylvania, but it is still doubtful whether McMillan will be ready to play.

BOXING ON DECLINE ON WESTERN COAST

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 14.—Since the passing of the Frayley law legalizing boxing in New York state, San Francisco boxing has been on the decline and few of our contests have been of any great importance. Clubs are receiving monthly permits but the cards being offered prove of only local interest.

The first bout of importance for some months will be staged here on Thanksgiving day, November 23, in the afternoon, and will be between Ad Wolgast, the American lightweight champion, and Freddie Welsh, the English lightweight champion of England.

Welsh is already in fine condition and is confident that he will win the decision over Wolgast. "I must beat Wolgast, and that's all there is to it," Welsh said. "The whipping of Wolgast means much to me. It means that I will get a return match with Matt Wells, the present English champion. To whip Wells is the height of my ambition. If I fail to whip Wolgast, I will not be able to get a match with Wells. Therefore, I am going to train for the coming match as I never trained before. If I am licked, depend upon it there is someone who will know that I have been in the ring with him. But I shall not fail. I expect to win my match with Wolgast by points, although I hope to effect a clean knockout victory, and to show that I am master of the American champion. Then—me for England and Matt Wells. He's my meat, and I will not rest until I have his scalp dangling from the English championship belt."

Welsh certainly looks as if he could put up the battle of his life, and it is certain that he will give Wolgast a hot argument. He is a fine boxer, but don't quite have the sleeping potion in his mitts that can put away Wolgast.

MANY REFORMS BY A. A. U. ARE PLANNED

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Reforms of a radical nature in the policy and constitution of the Amateur Athletic Union will be proposed at the annual meeting in New York November 20. Further conservation of the amateur spirit and character of the athletics fostered by the A. A. U. is the goal aimed at in the proposed reforms, and the elimination of the athletes whose services practically are bought by means of inducements which are of the same moral effect as fees, is aimed at.

Two rules, in particular, will be proposed. One will provide that an athlete who leaves a club affiliated with the A. A. U. must remain unaffiliated for two years before he will be eligible to membership in a different club.

The second provision is that no student in a college or university may belong to an athletic club other than that of his own college.

Other provisions suggested are that no athlete may engage in a contest under the Amateur Athletic Union rules, who has not previously filed with the registration committee of his district a bona fide certificate of four months' residence in that district. Nor may he enter a championship contest until he has filed a certificate of residence of six months in the district.

BILLIARD PLAYERS TO BEGIN TOURNEY

The crack billiard players of Colorado Springs will begin a tournament this evening at the National Billiard Hall, 25 Exchange Place, to settle the city three cushion championship question. The first night's play opens with Johnson marching against Phelps and Smith marching with Robbins.

The tournament promises to be one of the best ever held in the city as all the leaders have promised to compete. Seventeen players in all have signified their intention of taking part, and others are expected to file their names before the week ends.

There are four prizes to be competed for. The tournament will probably last a month, with the billiardists playing Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights. Here are some of the players who will take part:

Altken, Phelps, Arnsperger, Smith, J. Johnson, Robbins, Critz, Klepper, E. M. Johnson, Steele, Davis, Troutman, Stratton, Capen, Blood, Sinton and Perkins.

Render Played in 31 Contests Without Error

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Fielding honors among pitchers of the American league went to Chief Bender, of the Philadelphia club, according to the official averages of the 1911 season announced today by President Johnson. He played in 31 games without an error, with a percentage of 1,000. Walsh of Chicago accepted 186 chances, having 138 assists and 27 putouts, the largest number of any American league pitcher. He finished twelfth, with a percentage of 368.

Tube (Oldling), of Philadelphia, is leader among the outfielders, with a percentage of .979. Tammehill, of Chicago, led the shortstops. He made only 23 errors in accepting 642 chances. Stovall of Cleveland is the real leader among first basemen, although Zudey of Chicago, tops the list. Stovall's percentage is .986.

McConnell of Chicago, leads the list of second basemen, but Collins of Philadelphia, probably is the real leader, as he handled 697 chances and made only 24 errors.

Sullivan of Chicago, was first among the catchers.

Although Turner of Cleveland, leads the third basemen, Baker of Philadelphia, finished with a better record. Baker took part in 148 games whereas Turner played in only 92.

Philadelphia led in team fielding with Chicago second.

Indoor League Begins Season Coming Month

The Colorado Springs Indoor Baseball league will start the season with the first game the night of December 5. The final organization work was completed last night at a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. building.

The league will have four teams at first, with players representing Colorado City, Holy Name, Robbins and West Side. The full list of players will not be known before November 25. The umpires will be chosen at another meeting Tuesday night.

Dr. W. W. Flora is president of the league; William A. Hiffer is vice president; and J. W. Erps is secretary-treasurer. The schedule has been arranged so that games will be played on Tuesday and Friday nights of each week.

The Robbins and West Side will line up for the first contest, December 5, while the Colorado City and Holy Name teams will mix for the first time December 8. All games will be played at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

College Coeds Want to Play Boulder Girls

A number of "coeds" at Colorado college are preparing to organize a football team, according to reports that have been widely circulated about the campus during the last few days. The organization plans have been perfected to the extent, it is said, that several practices have been held.

The sole ambition of the members of the team, according to the report, is to get in shape to meet a squad of girls from the state university at Boulder on the gridiron and fight it out in an effort to regain part of the glory that was lost through the defeat of the Tiger team.

The girls are serious about the thing, the report says, and intend to forward a challenge to Boulder within the next week or so.

MANY FAST FIGHTERS LISTED FOR BENEFIT

The attention of the local sports world is directed towards Colorado City, where a number of state pugilists and wrestlers will gather in a benefit performance for the family of the late William Godfrey, in Mack's hall tonight. One of the stars of the evening will be Rube Smith, who gives promise of being the champion middle weight fighter of the world. The money will be used to defray the expenses of Godfrey's hospital attendants and physicians. Godfrey died from the effects of the blow received on the side of the neck, during a fight at Slink recently. He was well known in Colorado Springs.

CITY LEAGUE TO OPEN SEASON AT OVERLAND

Tonight will see the opening of the Colorado Springs City Bowling league on the Overland alleys, with the City Hall team pitted against the Overland five. Here is the lineup:

City Hall—McReynolds, Austin, Gwillim, Kimmel and Steele.

Overland—Stanley, Gamble, Scott, Conway and Falk.

The Powell-Dorier team defeated the Sanitary Dairy five in three straight games in the Commercial league contest last night. Capen's score of 297 was the high mark of the evening.

MINISTERS OF BOULDER AND LONGMONT MEETING

BOULDER, Colo., Nov. 14.—"India From the Viewpoint of a Minister" was the subject for the principal address given by Rev. A. J. Waller, pastor of the Longmont Methodist church, at the annual meeting of Boulder and Longmont ministers. Mr. Waller, who was born in India, treated the subject from a ministerial aspect and spoke of the wonderful possibilities offered there for men and women who are willing to sacrifice themselves for the good of humanity. According to Dr. Waller, the people of India are anxious to learn of Christ, but are handicapped by tradition and local conditions adverse to the teaching of the gospel. The meeting was devoted to discussion of the problems of small towns, especially those of this city and Longmont.

OKLAHOMA WOMEN FIGHT A DUEL ON CITY STREET

SAPULPA, Okla., Nov. 14.—In a duel on the principal street of this city, Lily Marshall, a freed woman, and Miss Laura Smith, an Indian, fought until their friends dragged them apart. The Marshall women is now in jail and Miss Smith is dead. Both were rich oil land holders and the fight was the result of a lovers quarrel.

SERUM CURES LOCKJAW

DENVER, Nov. 14.—The new lockjaw serum will, it is believed, save the life of Howard Hackstaff of 131 Downing street, a nephew of Dr. A. G. Tausig. Two or three days ago the young man, who is 18 years old, ran a nail in his foot in the garage of the Feltner Automobile company, where he is employed, and last evening was stricken with lockjaw while at work. He was removed to his home in an unconscious condition. He was still unconscious when Dr. Tausig arrived. The physician administered the lockjaw serum. He relaxed the boy's jaws and revived him to consciousness. It is thought that the boy is now beyond danger.

For the Mother

There is nothing quite so nice, so easily digested, so quickly prepared and so beneficial to both baby and mother as Horlick's Malted Milk. One likes it more the more they use it. Comes in several sized cans and lasts indefinitely. Better try a can.
